24 & 25 February 2016

The Esplanade Hotel Fremantle - by Rydges, Western Australia

The RIU Explorers Conference began in February 2002 at a time when the resources industry was just starting to pull out of a long period of malaise. The 250 delegates there witnessed the first signs of recovery and many junior stocks got their first kick in investment that led to some of them becoming strong mid to high cap stocks. At the same time many in the supply industry used this event as a springboard to the growth that set themselves for many years of strong profits.

Since then the industry has been through the resources boom, the GFC, the immediate short term recovery and an investment crisis. Over the past year, however, we have just started to see a return to investment in resources stocks that will hopefully lead to better times in the next 6 to 12 months. Through all of this the RIU Explorers Conference has grown to an event which fills the Esplanade Hotel Fremantle by Rydges with 50 Exhibition booths and has regularly attracted between 700 and 800 delegates. It is the event that starts the Australian Resources Conference Calendar and is always the most optimistic and eagerly awaited event.

Now in its 15th year the two day event features CEO's, Operations and Exploration Managers of the best mining and exploration companies as well as new emerging explorers; providing a venue to garner investment and to meet with other resources industry professionals to discuss new options and progress their business.

RIU Conferences invites you to attend and network, get informed, and invest at the 2016 Explorers Conference.

11 & 12 May 2016 Sofitel Sydney Wentworth, New South Wales

The RIU Sydney Resources Round-up has built its reputation over the past 12 years by not only meeting but exceeding the expectations of its attendees at what is now considered one of the leading mining investment conferences in Australia.

A large contingent of stock brokers, together with high quality private investors, provides the ideal conference environment to greatly assist in forming new relationships between investment groups and resources executives.

The highly attended auditorium also provides the perfect outlet for resources executives to present their latest exploration and mining developments, as well as providing outlooks from well researched specialists discussing domestic and international financial and commodity sectors.

The conference's popularity has seen it in recent years support the most number of resources company presentations at any east coast Australian resource conference across the year.

The culmination of these elements present a unique opportunity to network, get informed and invest and for this reason RIU Conferences warmly welcome you and look forward to your attendance at the 2016 event.

Symposium's 2015 Precious Metal Investment Symposium.

It was a pleasure for the Digger to attend Kerry Stevenson's Symposium Precious Metals Investment Symposium held on October 26th and 27th at the Four Seasons Hotel in Sydney.

In addition to excellent exhibitors, speakers and Gala Dinner, this year's event also featured a "Back to the Future" coin launch on the first evening and going with the theme the "Back to the Future" DeLorean was a show stealer at the Gala Dinner on the Tuesday night.

As part of the dinner two awards were given – the "Maggie" Bullion Award went to Bron Suchecki of the Perth Mint; this was for outstanding contributions to the bullion retail and education community. The second award for the night, the "Gavin Thomas" Mining Award went to Jake Klein, who really needs no introduction. What was very special is that the awards were presented by the spouses – Russell Holt, the husband of the late Maggie, and Gavin Thomas' widow, Barbara Thomas.

Jake is the Executive Chairman of Evolution Mining, which he has grown to Australia's second largest gold producer behind Newcrest, and which has made some key acquisitions this year, including the purchase of the Lake Cowal Gold Mine from Barrick.

For the Digger it was a good chance to have a talk with the exhibitors, which included a number of quality exploration, development and producing companies, as well as bullion dealers and precious metals investment advisors amongst others. As we have mentioned in previous articles, a good side effect of downturns is that generally only quality companies attend conferences, and the PMIS was no exception.

A number of Breakaway clients attended, including Orinoco Gold, Kin Mining, Adelaide Resources and Blackham Resources.

Although we did not get to the talks, comments from other attendees indicated that there were a number of very interesting and thought provoking talks on the investment side of precious metals, in addition to the company presentations.

Congratulations must go to Kerry and her fabulous crew for organising such a fantastic event yet again – having attended a number of Symposium events, including Broken Hill three times, the PMIS a number of times and numerous events I am always amazed at what Symposium manages to pull off, and the enthusiasm that Kerry and her team have.
